AWARD CELEBRATION
 UNIVERSITY OF NEW ENGLAND
 ATT, Portland, Maine

Junior College. Mr. William S. Linnell, President of the Board of Trustees, assisted public Convocation entitled "The Modern World and the Education of Woman," the Board of Trustees agreed.

leaders chosen from an expanding area—leaders invited to accept the honors of women members of the Board would be charged with the nominations. . .[T]he business and personal achievements of Maine women. The Board of Trustees, "Duke" Blewett (1958-1970) recalled in 1986:

Morton who had rendered more than fifty years of distinguished service to the Greater Portland area who had made significant and valuable contributions to the college. . .

Deborah Morton Award Recipients

DEBORAH MORTON (1857-1947) was the civic and professional life of their home communities...[T]he Deborah Morton Award is selected on the basis of achievement, leadership, and vision in a manner that characterizes Deborah Morton herself. She was one of the vanguard of women who fought for equal rights on the social, political, and cultural plane, and in the process of making her own way into the world of ideas. She was a woman who lived through the major events of her time and who saw the world...[T]he contributions of Deborah Morton are best described by the words of her own generation: "She was a woman of her time, she was the vanguard of her sex...[T]he Deborah Morton Award is selected on the basis of achievement, leadership, and vision in a manner that characterizes Deborah Morton herself. She was one of the vanguard of women who fought for equal rights on the social, political, and cultural plane, and in the process of making her own way into the world of ideas. She was a woman who lived through the major events of her time and who saw the world...[T]he contributions of Deborah Morton are best described by the words of her own generation: "She was a woman of her time, she was the vanguard of her sex...[T]he Deborah Morton Award is selected on the basis of achievement, leadership, and vision in a manner that characterizes Deborah Morton herself. She was one of the vanguard of women who fought for equal rights on the social, political, and cultural plane, and in the process of making her own way into the world of ideas. She was a woman who lived through the major events of her time and who saw the world...[T]he contributions of Deborah Morton are best described by the words of her own generation: "She was a woman of her time, she was the vanguard of her sex..."