WESTBROOK
A
NEW
PERSPECTIVE

Seems so soon to be leaving. . .

We're too young
for the final farewell.

*Fleet are the years
that pull the shroud
over youth
and obscure the stage
where young feet have danced to a song whose
tempo is unsteady,
whose moves are
complex.*

and we . . .

endless shifting in circles
that form

. . . patterns that build

*... friendships
which
shape
lives ...*

*Eyes beyond the footlights shine
back at us with longing, yearning for more — “Thirsty Onlookers!” we cry
laughing,
blind,
and dance on —
singing a song whose
lyrics
they
have
learned;*

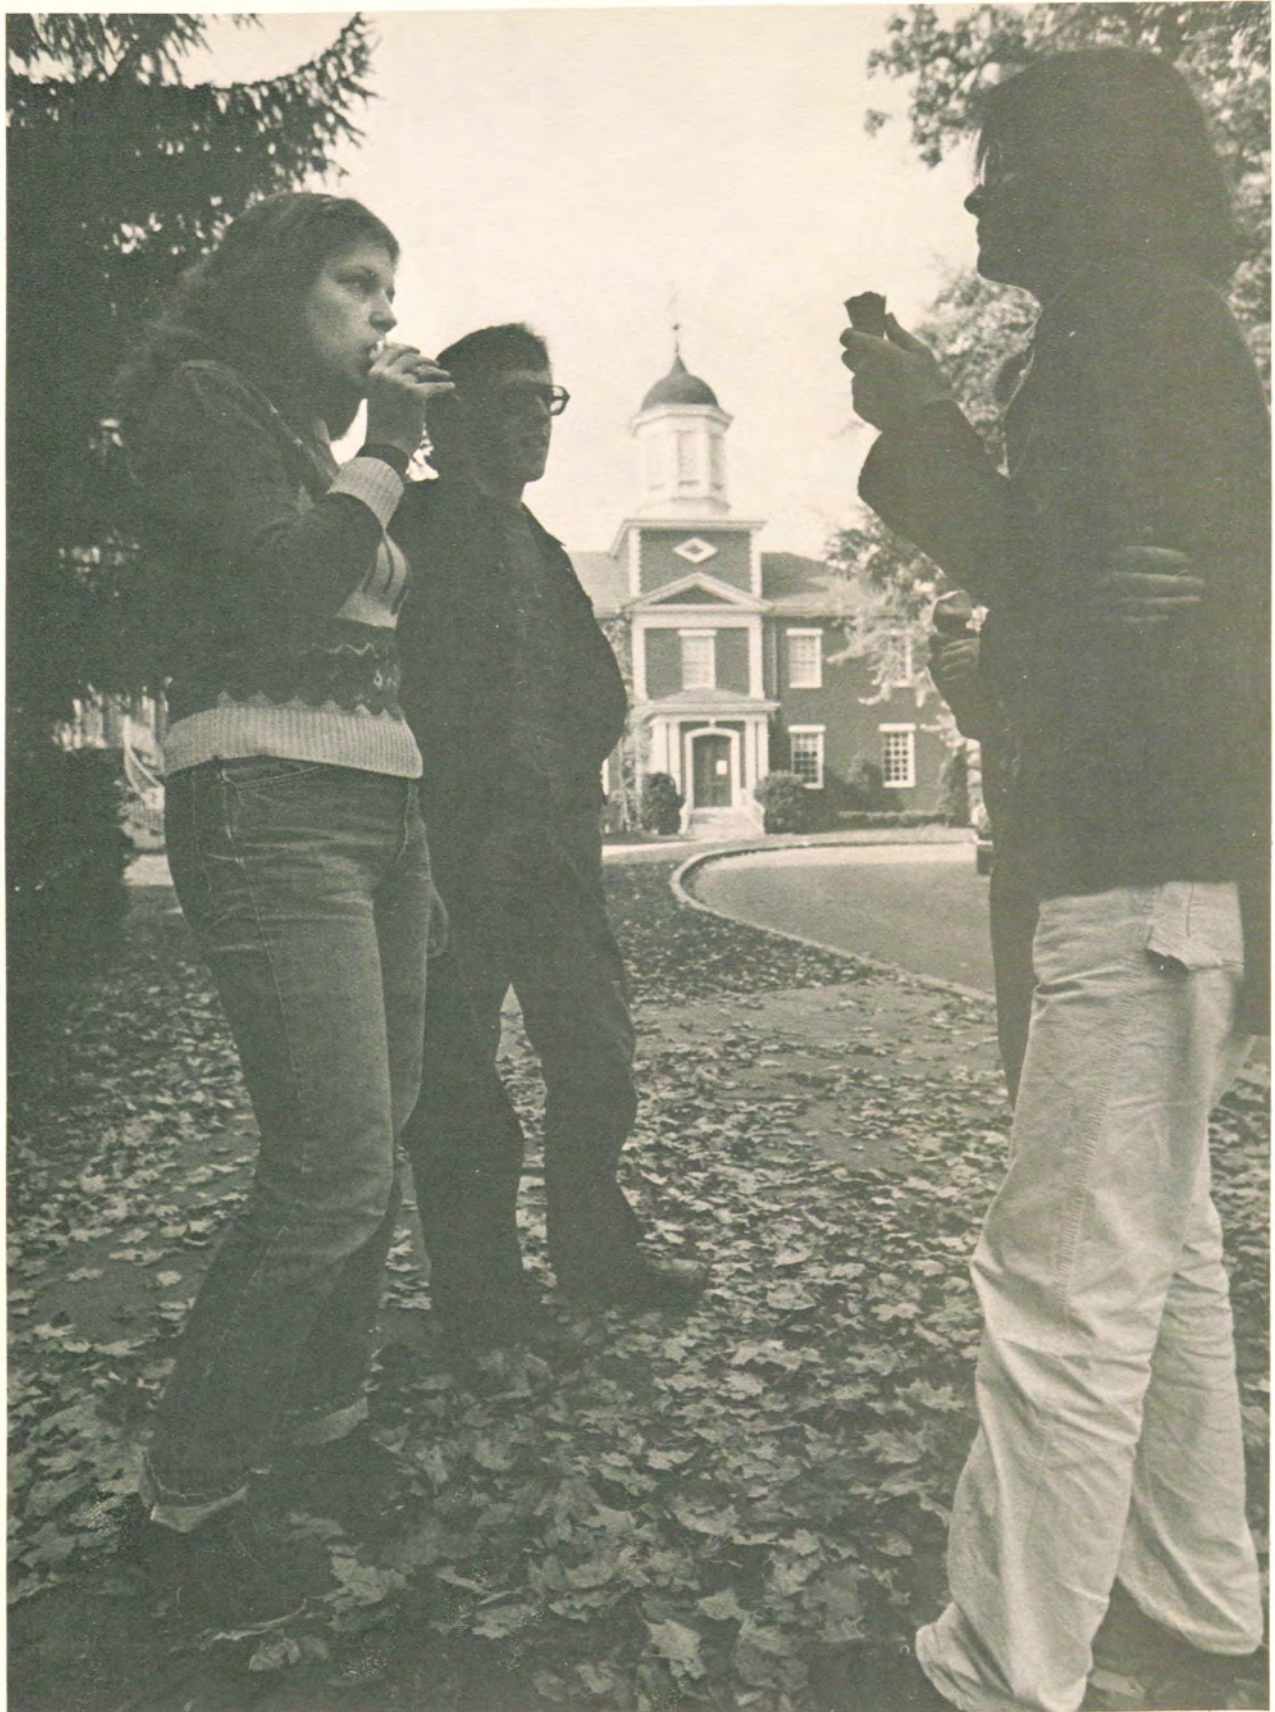

*The time is at hand —
the music slows and
the lights are coming up; (eyes blink trying to adjust)
memories of those
befriended
and those
loved,
endlessly
entwined,
are laid tenderly
in a trunk to grow old
with us . . .
for the dance is finished.
We assume our seats with heartbreaking
eagerness —
such weary sighs of
relief
to join those shining eyes
beyond
the
footlights —
faces
whose names come back to us as we look about, and learn we are not
among strangers*

Now
we
know . . .
the tear
and the one sigh of
longing
as the music starts again
for new dancers,
drunk with the wine,
moving in altered rhythm
to a song
age-old . . .
and the tug on the heartstrings,
the restless yearning
and shackled feet
are all ours now;
they shine in our eyes as we gaze
back at them with the old, familiar
longing,
seeing their blindness and
knowing those words, “We’ll all
meet
again . . . . .”

Deborah Whitney “78”

A diplomat
perceives the entire
question and outlines a workable solution.

A gardener
plants the seed of
thought in the fertile soil
of the mind.

A scientist
asks "shy?" and seeks to pass the knowledge on.

A philosopher
with words like a
surgeon's scalpel probes
to reveal the
subconscious.

A musician
plays, he and his
instrument as one
expressing and sharing
the language of music.

All these make a man who helps to show a
way . . .

Richard Roberts. ✓
