PRIDE'S CROSSING

Dear Mary

I shall send such a short letter that it isn't worth sending! --but you will like to have the news of my arrival and finding Mrs. Cabot pretty well. We have had a great evening, all the candles in the parlor but one were promptly snuffed ~~out~~ right out after supper and we were arranged convenient for hearing in our chairs and set in!! It is now ten.

I went to Boston with Mrs. Fields by the 1:40 & we came back on the 4.30 My foot is really all well and I went to the corner bookstore to do an errand and that was about all. The hour and a half went by quickly. I think we were pretty late getting to Town, but I don't know why. We seemed to speed right along but it was ten minutes of three when we got there I believe.

I am glad you like the story--the first stretch is a little heavy yet, but it has to tell certain things and get them done with. There are no more long pulls of history like that. Dicky Dana was reported to have returned and the girls were going over there to supper tonight, so I suppose they will have a nice time. Mrs. Cabot is going to ask them & A. F. here to lunch on Friday. A. F. was saying about you today, how dear and sweet you were, and perhaps you would come again so as to go to Judy's --but I told her I didn't believe we should get there this year. Good night with best love from Sarah
